World in Crisis

FOR MANY YEARS, partly due to the experience I of the Western powers in the wars of the late 19th century, the Boxer war of 1960, and the sad story of perfidy, avarice and corruption in the armies of the warlords of pre-Communist times, the Chinese had a poor reputation as fighting men.

In the Sino-Japanese wars of the 1930s they were defeated in Manchuria, at Shanghai and Woosung and, later, in Kwangtung when the Japanese occupied Canton and the southern provinces. But observers of those periods of hostilities learned one thing: the Chinese are stubborn fighters. Their courage frequently could be fanatical.

Well trained, well armed and well led they were dangerous adversaries Any doubt in this regard has been removed from military minds by the Korean war experience. The fact is there should never have been such doubt. The whole history of this contradictory people has demonstrated their war-like qualities, which, matched by their culture and philosophy, must mark

Their weakness of the recent past was due to

But under the Communist system they are finally unified, and they are no longer backward in technology. They have a massive resource in manpower—more than 750,000,000 people. Every one of them, physically able, is a potential fighter, the women as ell as the men. There is no secret about their military prepara-tions or of their ambitions. Peking intends to extend its hegemony to all Asia. They have the power to accomplish this unless they are immediately contained; and although conceivably they may ultimately clash with Russia, their parallel ideologies preclude this

There is no use closing one's eyes to the danger of a Sino-American confrontation. We must be pre-

What steps are to be taken in anticipation of such a crisis? Mr. Diefenbaker, on May 25, demanded an interruption of the business of the House of Coman interruption of the business of the House of Commons to discuss what he called a matter of international importance, and he stressed its urgency. He was referring to Viet Nam and the report of Mr. Cysus Eaton, the Canadian-born financier, who had just returned to his American home after a terrifying interview with Russian Premier Kosygin.

For some time the House debated whether or not the motion of the Leader of the Composition should be motion of the Leader of the Opposition should be dered. In the end it did nothing.

At a time like this the people of Canada are childed to have an appraisal of events from their government. This is a matter which brooks no delay.

French Lesson

UNITED STATES Secretary of State Dean Rusk's intest pronouncement on the Viet Nam war obviously must be taken more as a direct challenge to America's enemies than a statement of renestirance for her friends.

However, his belicose statement coupled with the Internifing program of American air raids on North Vist Nam hardly supports the belief held by a number of this Western allies that the United States is sincerely scelling a perceival solution to the present explosive situation in Scatthaget Asia.

Such warlike utherances at this time sound un-fortably like those made by General Henri Naof the French army in Indo-China in its war in the Vietminh Communist guerrillas. When he took charge France had already been fighting for eight years in what is now Viet Nam during which time three generals, 26 colonels, 59 maters, 341 captains, 1,140 lieutenants, 3,683 NCOs and 18,027 coldiers had died and 120,000 others were at to feel out the possibility of a negotiated peace, General Navarre decided first to have a final ling at the enemy with his re-equipped and heavily reinforced modern army, believing that he could descat the Vietminh and thus place France in a position of negotiating from strength.

When he was ready at last for the encounter he then issued his challenge to the Viets: "We have decided to give battle," he told the enemy, "face us

The Viets' answer was at once quick and decisive. They attacked the French stronghold of Dienbienphu killing mother 4,000 Frenchmen and inflicting disastrous defeat upon Navarre's once proud new army.

This reversal brought to an end not only the once proud empire of France but destroyed any hopes the French government had entertained of being able to negotiate for peace from a position of advantage. The past still holds many lessons for the present and the future. This may be one of them.

Up to the Public

UNDER CONSIDERATION is a plan to keep openall the main logging roads of a spectacular 150-squre-mile area of Sooke-Jordan River-Leechtown districts for weekend recreation.

This ruggedly wonderful country was hunted long before logging operations had commenced to take the centuries-old crops from the hills; and the cry of the cougar even today is not unfamiliar to travellers in the more remote areas. A fortunate few still are able to fish the scores of lakes that jewel these highlands, and game authorities maintain that intensive sports fishing is desirable to deplete the stock to the point where survivors will grow to greater size. Apart from the attractions of fish and game, this is great country for hiking, camping or just leisurely driving. It isn't virginal, of course, for logging, inevitably, must scar the landscape. But if it were not for the loggers there would not be any access roads and no opportunity for its exploration except by the Access, already granted in some areas by co-operative operators, can be denied if the public abuses its privilege. Regrettably experience of the past indicates that malicious damage to private property can normally be expected. The great risk, of course, is fire.

If fish and game clubs can give the operators guarantees and the general public indicates its willing, ness to co-operate in the protection of the woods the wider access to this magnificent holiday area may very well be approved when the loggers meet the rec-reationists this month. But at the first sign of carelessness, recklessnest or abuse the gates may close again. It's up to Cedar Hill and its young pro Dick Munn deserve pats on the back for the way in which the Cedar Hill Open was staged on Sunday. Dick had the course in top rate shape, and two new par four holes, replacing two rather inadequate one shotters, has increased the appeal of the course tremendously.

Indeed no one can now put Cedar Hill in the cow pasture category. The rough is tiger, the greens if still small putt extremely well and good shot placement is essential at nearly every hole.

Although the event attracted all the leading Island profes-

Attribugh the event attracted at the leading stand protections and many of the low handicap amateurs, no one of the 136 field managed to beat the new par of 65.

Nearest to doing so were Art Donaldson of Gorge Vale and Norm Boden of Mt. Brenton. Each carded 65s, and in the sudden death play-off Donaldson holed out in par four at the 19th hole to take the low gross trophy.

Donaldson, who is expecting to regain his amateur status this summer, played only for the trophy and top money prize went to Boden. Dick Munn was third with 67.

The John Merriman Memorial Trophy which goes to the low net score was also won by a Gorge Vale player. Maurice Grute shot 75, which with his handicap of 15 gave him a fiveof Gorge Vale, each with 74, less 12, 62.

The Es shot by Donaldson and Boden established a new record for the lengthened course, which now consists of 11 par fours and seven par threes.

Defending holders of the Willie Park Driver, Uplands will et a weakened Gorge Value team in its third-round match at Uplands on Wednesday. Gorge will be without two of its most consistent performers, Al McLeod and Gordon Jones, whose other duties preclude their ision, and this has caused a reshuffling of the side. Uplands, who for the second week will be without Gordon Pellow, are also making changes. Roger Bishop, one of their younger players, comes into the side in place of Claude Heggie.

Also Uplands have changed the order of their men. Bob Hunt and Eric Hibberson, who were No. 3 team last week against Victoria, move up to No. 1 spot, and they will oppose Art Donaldson and George Murphy respectively.

In the No. 2 match Eric Wright will partner Frank Scroggs against John Carlow and Gorge Vale captain Ab. Robertson, and in the third match Laurie Carroll pairs up with young Roger Bishop to go against Dave Fanthorpe and Lloyd Brooks tion as favorite to retain the trophy.

Victoria, shaping up as their chief rivals—they presently lead the league by half a point—also have home advantage this week, and like the others they also are making changes for their match with Royal Colwood.

Club pro Paul Trapp comes into the side along with big Bill Thompson, forming the No. 3 pairing in place of Drs. Flanagan and Scott Moncrief. They will be opposed by Laurie Kerr, who drops from first spot in the Colwood team, and Dr.

Andrews and Bill Court.

The second game should be an interesting encounter with two old and experienced rivals in Bill McColl and Vic Painter clashing in one single and two youngsters Vaughan Trapp and Ricky Kent in the other.

Although the official starting time for the matches remains 5:30, players have been informed that if all members of the foursome are ready they may start any time after 5 p.m.

How come Financial Security is like a three-legged stool?

Became it's almost uscless with one leg, surer with two, but it takes three legs to make it balanced and safe. The same is true of your financial plans for retirement. A stable, balanced plan needs three strong supports you can count

One leg: The Canada Pension Plan and the Old Age Security Pension combine to form the starting point, or first leg of your Family Security Program. But alone, they

Two legs: Many people have some form of Group Insurance and Pension Plan coverage through their place of work. These form the second leg supporting their overall security program.

Three legs: Like the three-legged stool, a solid and balanced patirement security program requires a third support. This third leg is a plan of personal life insurance te guarantee a comfortable retirement. Your Metropolitan representative knows all about the Canada Pension Plan. If you are in doubt, don't hesitate

Forks and Mites

green tress are deservedly popular as specimens for the front laws, for not only are they good to look at all year round, but also they are somewhat less prone to attack by bugs and blights. Even so, though, these comparatively trouble-free subjects need a bit of proection against pests from time to time. One fairly common disability in coniferous lawn trees is a tendency for the upper growing tip to divide into two tips. This is usually the result of damage to the original up - either mechanical or from bugs - and the tree's reaction to the loss of its tip is exactly the same as when you pinch the tip of a geranium or snapdragon branches, making two tips instead

If you let the tree get away with this, its whole shape will be ruined: you'll have a forked tree and it will never gain be a shapely, symmetrical specimen. If you find two tips competing for leadership, therefore, don't hesitate to cut away one of them, leaving the straightest and best-placed one in undisputed possession of the top of canted at a slight angle rather than pointing straight up, due to the com-petition of the removed tip. It will straighten itself out in time without help, but you may be left with an unsightly kink in the trunk as the shoot changes direction of growth to vertical. I think it is a good idea to rig a simple splint - a strong, straight stick lashed to the trunk — and pull in the erring shoot VERY gradually, over a period of several months, with ties of some soft material that won't chafe or injure

During a hot dry spell, your ever-greens may lose some of their fresh green color and take on a sickly greyish look. This dry, unhealthy appearance is not due to drought at the roots as may be supposed, but is caused by an infestation of spider mites. These sap-suckers are too small to be seen easily without a glass, but if you can detect traces of a very fine web on the stems and needles, you can be pretty sure your tree has mites.

I never had spider mite infestation on my conifers, although I have seen heavy and disastrous attacks on trees in my immediate neighborhood. I believe my freedom from this pest is due to my habit of washing down the foliage with a very forceful jet of water every time I have the hose out.

. Whether the force of the jet knocks the bugs out of my trees or whether the dampness is uncongenial to the mites, I wouldn't know. Certainly, though, the evergreens thrive under this treatment.

While plain water seems to be able to ward off an infestation of mites. I doubt very much if it would clean up a tree once the pest was dug in and thoroughly established. Malathion will kill mites but not their eggs, and I wouldn't hesitate to use it if I had nothing better. Trouble is, malathion is effective against a very wide range of insects, knocking off friendly and useful bugs as well as pests, and the killing of these predators can have an unhappy end result in the garden.

If you can get keithane or Aramite, you can deal destruction among your termites without worrying about ladybird beetles and other pest-destroying insects, for these preparations are much more specific in their action. For best results, spray three times, 10 days apart, to catch the new generations of mites as they emerge from the egg stage.

Confusion Confounded

WASHINGTON.—President Johnson's decision to order the FBI into the Dominioan Republic camp, as a surprise to many people here in Washington. One of the reasons he did it, according to some sources, was to find McGeorge Bundy, his White House side, who had been missing since the teach-in debate in Washington, D.C. a few weeks ago.

The last seen of Bundy, he was discussing with the loyalist and rebel factions some solution to the problem in Santo Domingo.

En Santo Domingo.

Bundy's final words before he disappeared into the jungle were to Gen. Imbert of the junta forces, and he was quoted as saying to the general, "Well if you won't agree on a condition government, would you consider becoming the Sist state?"

The fustice department has denied the FBI was sent to the Dominioan Republic just to find Bundy.

Rumor has it they're being sent to infiltrate the CIA. The CIA, as you remember, were said to have warned the United States of a communist takeover in the Dominican

When it was impossible to produce any of the Communists President Johnson got very mad and said the FBI could have produced a dozen communists on a half hour's notice. Most of them would have been FBI informers, but they still would have been communists.

So President Johnson called up J. Edgar Hoover and said, "Get me some communists in the Dominican Residual and meaning."

public, and pronto.

Hoover offered to go himself, but the president vetoed the idea, and said, "That's how Bundy got away and Ah don't plan to let it happen again." According to reports, the FBI will have two functions.

second will be to clear possible candidates for a future coalition government, a job that in the past has been left to each country in the hemisphere.

It's a new function for the FBI and it isn't too far-fetched to predict that some day all Latin American government.

One will be to investigate the communist menace and the erraments will have to have FBI clearances before they can rule in their own lands.

The real problem facing the FBI in the Dominican Republic is what do you do with the CIA. We must assume the CLA has infiltrated the left wing in Sento Domingo, and with the funds at their disposal probably control it.

What will happen when the FBI informers move in with their funds? You'll have two factions fighting for power, and neither side will know the other is also working for the United States.

They may even wind up battling in the streets of Santo Domingo, which would put the U.S. Marines in a heck of a spot. Who should they fire on—the CIA information the FBI undergover aports?

ers or the FBI undercover agents?

There is also a morale factor to be considered. If the FBI digs up more communists than the CIA, it will look very bad for the Central Intelligence Agency, and they may have to bring in some Custro communists from Cuba to show they're on the ball.

If the CIA produces more communists than the FBI, the FBI may be forced to bring in communists from the University of California.

The only solution, as far as I can see, is to send Bundy back to the Dominican Republic to negotiate a coalition secret service made up half of CIA agents and half of agents from the FBI.

Otherwise you may have a confusing situation in the Dominioan Republic, and nobody wants that,

HOLLYWOOD (Nana)—It seems incredible that Ann Biyth has not made a movie since 1957—her last was. The Helen Morgan Story, a man-size flop. A public relawas "too good" and that is why she never really caught on as a hig star. Seems ridiculous until you consider the current deification of Frank Sinatra in certain sections of the U.S. press. Sinstra's last few films have not made money. The past and present life of the about-to-be 50-year-old gayest bachelor in town could certainly not be placed under the heading of "too good."

CHICAGO (AP) - A man died of cancer because a kidlung of the kidney donor. Surgery was considered in an effort to remove the cancer, but the patient's condiapparently contained unsuspected cancer cells. The case, in which the re-cipient survived five months with satisfactory kidney func-tion, is reported in the cur-rent journal of the American Medical Association.

Drs. Donald Martin, Milton Rubbil and Victor Rosen say the recipient was a 46-year-old white male baker admitted to hospital in Los Angeles Nov. 16, 1963.

When kidney failure threat-ened his life, a transplant was decided on. The transplant op-eration occurred Aug. 25, 1964. A kidney taken from a 25-year-old man who had just died from lung cancer was used.

the doctors said the dead man's lung cancer had spread to his brain, but there was no evidence at the time it had spread to his abdominal cavity.

The transplanted kidney began functioning immediately and the patient gradually regained strength. He was able to walk behind a wheelchair

However, last December the patient complained of pain in his right side. A chest X-ray showed a suspected dense area in the lung. A needle biopsy was made in the area of the transplanted kidney and disclosed some cancer cells. These cells were identical to

When kidney failure threat-ened his life, a transplant was decided on. The transplant op-eration occurred Aug. 25, 1964. A kidney taken from a 25-year-old man who had just died from lung cancer was used.

The doctors said the dead man's lung cancer had spread to his brain, but there was no evidence at the time it had spread to his abdominal eavity.

The transplanted kidney be-gan functioning immediately and the patient gradually re-gained strength. He was able to walk behind a wheelchair
